

I, D. SUMMARY OF TRAINING

Over the past year the Environmental Services Division's Stormwater staff focused on the requirements of the current and future NPDES permit as they relate to development. The first training session was tailored so that the different departments represented could understand the broad scope as well as specific requirements contained in the NPDES Permit. It emphasized how all of the City's activities have some influence on stormwater runoff and the potential new requirements the City must address to comply with the new Permit. The second training session was geared towards staff that deal specifically with development. The focus was on the priority projects and the Regional Board's clarification of the requirements and the BMPs used to address the requirements.
